MetLife Investment Management

METLIFE INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT EUROPE LIMITED

REMUNERATION POLICY

21 May 2025

Confidential

Table of Contents

1 Introduction 4
1.1 Purpose 4
1.2 Scope and Application 5
1.3 Policy Ownership, Application and Awareness 6
1.4 Relevant Legislative Requirements 6
1.5 Policy Exceptions or Waiver to Policy 7
1.6 Issue Escalation and Breach Reporting 7
1.7 Proportionality 7
2 Structure of Compensation Programme 9
3 Remuneration Process 12
3.1 Governance and Reporting 12
3.2 Remuneration Determination Process 12
4 Risk management 13
4.1 General Risk Management 13
4.2 Avoiding conflicts of interest 14
4.3 Impact on Capital Adequacy 15
5 Employee Performance 15
5.1 Performance Measurement and Risk Adjustment 15
5.2 Assessment of Performance 16
5.3 Guaranteed Variable Remuneration (provisions addressing ESMA Guidelines) 16
5.4 Retention Awards 17
5.5 Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment 18
6 Early Termination 18
6.1 Payments related to Early Termination 18
7 Firm Securities 19
7.1 Pledging Firm Securities 19
7.2 Hedging 19
7.3 Deferral / Firm-wide Deferral 19
8 Delegation 19
8.1 Delegate Investment Managers 19

9 Sustainability / ESG Considerations 20
9.1 Integration of Sustainability Risks 20
10 Disclosures 21
Appendix 1 22

1 Introduction

This Remuneration Policy (the "Policy") was originally approved by MetLife Investment Management Europe Limited (the "Company" or "MIM Europe") board of directors (the "Board") on 28 February 2022 and most recently updated on 21 May 2024.

The Company is a wholly owned indirect subsidiary of MetLife, Inc. (including the wider group, "MetLife" or the "Firm").

The Company is authorised by the Central Bank of Ireland ("Central Bank") as:

(a) a management company (a "UCITS ManCo") pursuant to the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011, as amended (the "UCITS Regulations"), to carry on the business of managing UCITS in the form of unit trusts, common contractual funds, ICAVs or investment companies (or any combination thereof); and

(b) an alternative investment fund manager ("AIFM") pursuant to the European Union (Alternative Investment Fund Managers) Regulations 2013 (the "AIFM Regulations"), to carry on the activities of acting as AIFM to alternative investment funds and those additional activities compromising:

(i) IPM[1];

(ii) investment advice; and

(iii) receipt and transmission of orders pursuant to Regulation 7(4)(a), (b)(i) and (b)(iii) of the AIFM Regulations,

1.1 Purpose

MetLife has developed a global group remuneration policy which applies to all subsidiaries, including both executives and employees of the group, in addition to relevant independent contractors of the Company. The Company's compensation policy falls within the global arrangements set by MetLife. MetLife's compensation programme is designed to:

- provide competitive total compensation opportunities that will attract, retain and motivate high-performing employees;
- align the Firm's compensation plans with its short-term and long-term business strategies;
- align the financial interests of the Firm's employees with those of its shareholders through stock-based incentives and stock ownership requirements, where applicable; and

[1] "IPM" means the management of portfolios of investments, including those owned by pension funds and institutions for occupational retirement provision in accordance with Article 19(1) of Directive 2003/41/EC, in accordance with mandates given by investors on a discretionary, client-by-client basis.

- reinforce the Firm's pay for performance culture by making a meaningful portion of total compensation variable and differentiating awards based on Firm and individual performance.

This Policy complies with Schedule 2 of the AIFM Regulations, as may be amended from time to time, the UCITS Regulations, as may be amended from time to time, the Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 565/2017 (the "MiFID II Delegated Regulation"), the Capital Requirements Directive IV 2013/36 ("CRD IV"), where applicable, the ESMA Guidelines on sound remuneration policies under the AIFMD, the ESMA Guidelines on sound remuneration policies under the UCITS Directive and the ESMA Guidelines on remuneration policies and practices (MiFID) (ESMA/2013/606) (together the "ESMA Guidelines").

This Policy also reflects the Company's objective for good corporate governance and:

- is consistent with and promotes sound and effective risk management and does not encourage risk-taking that is inconsistent with the risk profile, rules or instruments of incorporation of the Company and each UCITS or AIF under the management of the Company ("Fund") and/or discretionary or non-discretionary segregated mandate ("Individual Portfolio"), including the Company's risk appetite and strategy, ESG considerations (as relevant), culture and values, and the long-term effects of any investment decisions taken;
- is consistent with the business strategies, objectives, values, and long-term interests of each Fund and/or Individual Portfolio and includes measures to avoid conflicts of interest, or where conflicts cannot be avoided, that they can be appropriately managed at all times; and
- is considered to be compliant with the Employment Equality Acts 1998 to 2021.

1.2 Scope and Application

Employees of the Company who have been designated as "material risk takers" (also referred to as "Identified Staff") are governed by more prescriptive rules in respect of their compensation, including the structure of their variable compensation. Individuals are categorised as Identified Staff based on the criteria set out by the European Banking Authority and the ESMA Guidelines, including any applicable local regulations. The Identified Staff list is reviewed on an ongoing basis and they are notified of their status and the impact on their remuneration structure annually, where relevant.

Individuals are designated as Identified Staff based on the qualitative and quantitative criteria set out in the Regulatory Technical Standards (EU) 604/2014[2] and the ESMA Guidelines as well as the Company's own risk assessment of their roles.

[2] Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No 604/2014 of 4 March 2014 supplementing Directive 2013/36/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council with regard to regulatory technical standards with respect to qualitative and appropriate quantitative criteria to identify categories of staff whose professional activities have a material impact on an institution's risk profile.

Regard is had to the ability of the staff member, either on an individual or collective basis, to cause: a material financial gain or loss to the Company or the Funds / Individual Portfolios under management; a disruption to the proper functioning of the business; a breach of legal or regulatory requirements or, substantial reputational damage to the Company. The Company also considers whether the individual's total remuneration package brings that person into the remuneration bracket of senior managers.

The Company has concluded that the individuals who hold Pre-approval Controlled Function roles, its Head of Sales, and its Sales Director are those[3] that could potentially exercise significant influence and are the Identified Staff of the Company.

Identified Staff also include categories of staff of the entity(ies) to which investment management activities have been delegated whose professional activities may have a material impact on the risk profiles of the funds and portfolios that the Company manages.

Except for the non-executive independent director, who is external to the Company and is entitled to receive a fixed remuneration for his role as member of the Board, all other directors of the Company are part of the MetLife Group and receive no separate remuneration for their role on the Board.

1.3 Policy Ownership, Application and Awareness

The Policy is owned, maintained and updated by the Human Resources ("HR") function.

The Policy must be reviewed on an annual basis (or more frequently if there are material changes required) and presented to the Board for approval. The design, implementation, and effects of the Policy will also be independently reviewed on an annual basis by the Compliance function, in conjunction with HR. The results of any review and the actions taken as a result of the review will be documented accordingly.

It is the responsibility of all relevant persons working for the Company to be familiar with this Policy and to exercise sound judgement to act within the adopted version of the Policy in their daily work.

1.4 Relevant Legislative Requirements

The Policy has been prepared in accordance with all applicable legislation, in particular the following:

a) the AIFM Regulations;

b) the UCITS Regulations and the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (Section 48(1)) (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2019 ("CBI UCITS Regulations");

[3] Central Bank Reform Act 2010 (Sections 20 and 22) Regulations, 2011 (S.I. No. 437 of 2011)

c) the European Union (Markets in Financial Instruments) Regulations 2017 (the "MiFID Regulations") and the MiFID II Delegated Regulation; and

d) the Central Bank's Fund Management Company ("FMC") Guidance.

1.5 Policy Exceptions or Waiver to Policy

Exceptions or waivers to the Policy are subject to all applicable legislative and regulatory requirements.

1.6 Issue Escalation and Breach Reporting

Any breach of the Policy whether deliberate or negligent, is considered a serious matter and must be reported to the Head of Compliance, the Head of Risk and, as appropriate, the Board.

1.7 Proportionality

The Policy complies with the requirements of the AIFM Regulations and UCITS Regulations in a such way and to the extent that is appropriate given the size, internal organisation and the nature of the Company, its Funds and Individual Portfolios under management, and the scope and complexity of their activities. The Company applies a proportionality principle in accordance with the ESMA Guidelines.

Taking into account the size, nature and scope of its activities, the Board ensures that the Company's Remuneration Policy complies with the ESMA Guidelines. In accordance with the ESMA Guidelines , the Board has decided to dis-apply some or all of the following requirements of the ESMA Guidelines relating to the pay-out process rules and the establishment of a remuneration committee:

(a) variable remuneration in instruments of managed Funds and Individual Portfolios;

(b) retention;

(c) deferral;

(d) ex-post incorporation of risk for variable remuneration[4]; and

(e) having a remuneration committee.

The disapplication of the above requirements is reconcilable with the risk profile, risk appetite and the strategies of the Company, Funds and Individual Portfolios.

[4] Notwithstanding the disapplication of the full impact of the ESMA Guidelines concerning ex-post incorporation of risk for variable remuneration, all incentive awards to Identified Staff are subject to ex-post risk adjustment as set out in the 'Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment Policy' (and the additional terms that supplement that Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment Policy for Identified Staff, as set out in Appendix 1 to this Policy)

In deciding to dis-apply the above provisions, the Board has considered the following factors in relation to proportionality, insofar as they relate to the Company, its activities, and the funds or portfolios under management.

Size

The Board considers the investment strategies of the Funds or Individual Portfolios are not complex, have relatively low risk profiles and long-term investment objectives, and assets under management or non-discretionary advisory arrangements ("AUM") are collectively less than €1.25 billion with low levels of leverage. The Company does not currently have any subsidiaries or branches.

Internal Organisation

As the Company is structured as a private limited company, it will not be listed on any regulated market or exchange, nor are any of its Funds. The current number of employees, secondees and Directors is below 50. The organisational structure is not complex and has clear reporting lines in place.

Nature, scope, and complexity of the activities

The Company is authorised to carry out collective portfolio management activities of UCITS and AIFs, IPM activities, to provide investment advice and for the receipt and transmission of orders. The Company may conduct certain activities on a cross-border basis, subject to compliance with applicable requirements. Where applicable, the Company has delegated the activities relating to fund accounting, transfer agency, maintenance of the shareholder register, in addition to investment management activities to third parties that specialise in the particular investment strategies, geographical regions, and asset classes. The delegation of investment management duties will be to entities within the MetLife Investment Management platform[5]. The Board of the Company also notes other factors indicating low complexity and scale, including the size of the obligations which a risk taker may enter into on behalf of the Company, the size of the group of persons who collectively have a material impact on the risk profile of the Company, and the structure of the remuneration of the staff members.

MetLife's remuneration policy is designed by the global HR function in conjunction with senior global management, including the Global Compensation Committee. Global Risk Management of MetLife reviews compensation programs annually, including those of MIM and the Company.

The Board is satisfied that:

- the Company complies with applicable regulations and the ESMA Guidelines in a way and to the extent that is appropriate to its size, internal organisation and the nature, scope, and complexity of its activities; and
- the disapplication of the pay-out process rules and the requirement to establish a remuneration committee is reconcilable with the risk profile, risk appetite and the strategy of the Company and [5] MetLife Investment Management ("MIM"), MetLife's third-party investment management business, is responsible for providing investment management services to its affiliated insurance company entities and to unaffiliated financial institutions via segregated managed accounts and funds. MIM currently comprises six registered investment advisors globally, including MIM Europe.

the portfolios under management. The Board reviews the foregoing arrangements on at least an annual basis.

The above factors will not be considered in isolation when applying proportionality. Rather, the focus will be on the combination or cumulative presence of all the foregoing criteria and any other relevant criteria. For example, the listing of one fund should not by itself be sufficient for considering the management company as having a complex internal organisation. The Board is committed to ensuring that sound remuneration policies and practices are in place, having regard to the entire organisation of the Company, its activities, and the characteristics of the funds or portfolios under management.

2 Structure of Compensation Programme

MetLife uses a competitive total compensation structure that consists of base salary, discretionary annual incentive awards and where applicable, stock-based long-term incentive award opportunities. The primary components of MetLife's regular executive compensation and benefits program play various strategic roles:

In structuring the total compensation package, the Company ensures that fixed and variable components of total remuneration are appropriately balanced, and the fixed component represents a sufficiently high proportion of the total remuneration. Under the compensation package, there is always the possibility to pay no variable remuneration component.

Description	Strategic Role
Base Salary is determined based on position, scope of responsibilities, individual performance, and competitive data.	• Provides fixed compensation for services during the year.
Annual incentive awards • Value of awards is variable based on performance relative to the Firm and individual goals and additional business challenges or opportunities that arose during the year that were not reflected in previously established goals.	• Variable remuneration. • Recognise and differentiate individual performance each year. • Motivate employees to achieve strong annual business results that will contribute to the Firm's long-term success, without creating an incentive to take excessive risk.

Description	Strategic Role
• Individual awards are determined using management's assessment of performance as a whole, not by a formula. • All incentive awards to Identified Staff are subject to ex-post risk adjustment as set out in the 'Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment Policy' (and the additional terms that supplement that policy for Identified Staff as set out in appendix 1 to this remuneration policy ("Appendix 1")), and the MetLife Policy for the Recoupment of Erroneously Awarded Compensation under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, as applicable.
Stock-Based Long-Term Incentive Awards (where applicable) • Awards are based on the assessment of individual level of responsibility, performance, relative contribution, and potential for assuming increased responsibilities and future contributions. • The balance of cash and long-term incentive opportunities varies by job level and progressively increases at levels with greater influence on strategy and decision-making. • Ultimate pay-out for awards depends on the value of shares (restricted stock units), increases in the price of shares (stock options), or a combination of MetLife's performance as well as the value of shares (performance shares). Cash-paid equivalents are used outside the U.S. • For awards for performance year 2016 to present, made as part of total compensation	• Variable remuneration. • Ensure that officer-level employees have a significant continuing stake in the long-term financial success of the Firm. • Align executives' interests with those of shareholders. • Encourage decisions and reward performance that contribute to the long-term growth of the Firm's business and enhance shareholder value. • Encourage executives to remain with MetLife.

Description	Strategic Role
for performance and in expectation of future contributions to performance, grant vehicles were as follows: • MetLife grade 19 and 20: 1) stock options/units were 25% of the value of stock-based long-term incentive awards. 2) restricted stock units/restricted units were 25%. 3) performance shares were 50%. • MetLife grades 15 through 18: 1) restricted stock units/restricted units were 50% of the value of such awards. 2) performance shares/units were 50%. • MetLife grade 14: 1) restricted stock units/restricted units were 100% of the value of such awards. • All long-term incentive awards made to Identified Staff are subject to ex post risk adjustment as set out in the 'Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment Policy' (and the additional terms that supplement that policy for Identified Staff as set out in Appendix 1), and the MetLife Policy for the Recoupment of Erroneously Awarded Compensation under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, as applicable.

3 Remuneration Process

3.1 Governance and Reporting

The Company does not have its own remuneration committee in Ireland given the limited nature, scale, and complexity of the Company's activities.

The HR function is responsible for ensuring that an appropriate policy is in place for the Company and the Head of Compliance is responsible for ensuring that it complies with applicable legislative and regulatory requirements. The Policy (and the Company's adherence to the Policy) will be subject to an annual review by the Board, led by the Chairperson as person responsible for the OE Role. Given the limited nature, scale and complexity of the Company's activities, the Policy will not be subject to an external, independent review. The review by the Board will ensure that:

(a) the overall remuneration system operates as intended;

(b) the remuneration pay-outs are appropriate including in respect of Identified Staff;

(c) the risk profile, long term objectives and goals of each Fund and Individual Portfolio is adequately reflected; and

(d) the Policy addresses regulatory requirements.

The Board will take appropriate measures to address any deficiencies identified in the Policy.

If a review of the Policy identifies any non-compliance with AIFM Regulations, the UCITS Regulations, Central Bank requirements or the ESMA Guidelines, a re-statement of the Policy may be the appropriate course of action, in which case, such re-statement is subject to the approval of the DP for Regulatory Compliance and the Board.

Decisions regarding remuneration of the Company's employees take into account the following risks:

- the risk that an individual's performance and resulting remuneration is incorrectly assessed such that it encourages excessive risk-taking by the individual; and
- the risk that remuneration is awarded which is unaffordable and threatens the overall financial soundness of the Company.

In addition, the remuneration of Identified Staff is reasonably aligned with the interests of the Company and the Funds and Individual Portfolios it manages and is designed to promote effective risk management (including with respect to long and short-term interests, and sustainability risks, where relevant).

3.2 Remuneration Determination Process

MetLife's remuneration policy is designed by HR in conjunction with senior global management, including the Global Compensation Committee. Each employee's total compensation reflects an assessment of MetLife's (and the employee's) performance as well as competitive market-aligned ranges. All compensation recommendations are subject to review and approval by the CEO.

Employee incentive awards are discretionary and are not formulaic in that they are not linked solely to quantitative economic results. The Company takes into account all types of current and future risks (financial and non-financial) when measuring performance and when allocating bonuses to its employees. The Company's performance objectives include quantitative and qualitative contributions to the organisation. Certain employees are eligible to participate in the annual incentive award. Certain Company employees may participate in one or more of the three MetLife long-term incentive awards which are designed to align the financial interests of the Company's executives with those of its shareholders as described above.

Within the MetLife group the staff involved in HR, Compliance and Internal Audit are all separate from the lines of business which they oversee and monitor. Their management is separate as is the assessment of their remuneration arrangements. Although separate from the lines of business, these control functions are subject to the same remuneration arrangements and processes for review of performance and remuneration. In addition, Compliance and MetLife Internal Audit may carry out reviews of remuneration arrangements across the business areas. Where those reviews identify shortcomings, appropriate action is taken.

4 Risk management

4.1 General Risk Management

MetLife's compensation programme (which is a group-wide compensation programme) aligns with the Firm's strategies and has a number of features that promote prudent decision making and avoid providing the Firm's employees with an incentive to take excessive risks. These are:

a. MetLife's compensation programme uses "Adjusted Earnings" as one of the metrics on which compensation is based. Operating Earnings excludes net investment gains and losses and net derivative gains and losses. This removes the incentive to: (i) not hedge exposures to various risks inherent in a number of products or (ii) disrupt the risk balance in MetLife's investment portfolio by trying to increase capital gains for the sole purpose of enhancing incentive compensation. It also removes incentives to use derivatives for speculative purposes, a practice that MetLife prohibits.

b. MetLife uses three-year overlapping performance periods and vesting for long-term incentive compensation so that the vesting period for compensation reflects the time lag for the results of many business decisions.

c. Share ownership requirements, a Performance-based Compensation Recoupment Policy (including the additional terms as apply to Identified Staff as set out in Appendix 1), and the MetLife Policy for the Recoupment of Erroneously Awarded Compensation under the Dodd-Frank Reform and Consumer Protection Act, as applicable, all ensure that employees' interests are aligned with those of the shareholders.

Each year, global management reviews the MetLife employee incentive compensation programmes taking into account all of the risk management processes in place to ensure that they do not encourage excessive risk taking. In doing so, it follows principles provided by MetLife's Chief Risk Officer regarding performance measures, performance periods, payment determination processes, management controls, and other aspects of the arrangements.

MetLife's compensation programme excludes practices that would be contrary to the Firm's compensation philosophy and contrary to shareholders' interests. For example, MetLife:

- does not offer a supplemental executive retirement plan that provides benefits under a different formula than the pension plan applicable to most U.S.-based employees, or that adds to years of service or includes long-term incentive compensation in the benefits formula;
- does not allow repricing or replacing of stock options or stock appreciation rights without prior shareholder approval;
- does not provide any "single trigger" change-of-control severance pay or any severance pay beyond two times average pay;
- does not provide for "single trigger" vesting of stock-based awards upon a change-of-control without the opportunity for the Firm or a successor to substitute alternative awards that remain subject to vesting;
- does not allow executives or associates to engage in short sales, hedging, or trading in put and call options with respect to MetLife's securities; and
- restricts directors and employees, including executives, from pledging MetLife's securities.

4.2 Avoiding conflicts of interest

Conflicts of interest may arise which could cause an employee to take action for their own benefit rather than for the benefit of the Company and / or the Firm, or its clients. MetLife's remuneration programme seeks to avoid conflicts of interest by encouraging employees to make prudent judgements in the following ways:

a. Individual performance is assessed holistically using both quantitative and qualitative measures which may include goals related to financial performance, people and culture, business and customer, and sustainability. Individual performance forms part of the determination of the level of bonus that an employee may be awarded under the annual incentive award.

b. All remuneration proposals (fixed and variable pay) for all business units and control functions are submitted, reviewed and approved through the approval hierarchy embedded within the global compensation planning arrangements.

MetLife also requires appropriate people outside of the compensation approval hierarchy to be involved in the compensation determination process as a check against any one individual having an inappropriate level of influence over the remuneration policies and process.

Remuneration and similar incentives shall not be solely or predominantly based on quantitative commercial criteria and shall take into account appropriate qualitative criteria reflecting compliance with the applicable regulations, and, as applicable, the fair treatment of clients and the quality of services provided to clients.

4.3 Impact on Capital Adequacy

The Firm (and, as relevant, the Company) considers the risks associated with the MetLife remuneration systems as they apply to the Firm with regard to the possible impact on the Firm's capital base, including the impact of remuneration pay-out levels, both upfront and deferred amounts, in its capital planning and in the overall capital assessment process. The Firm determines whether the total variable remuneration awarded to its staff will limit its ability to maintain or restore a sound capital base in the long term and has proper regard to the interests of investors and other stakeholders. If the Firm were to fall short of its capital targets it will give priority to building up the necessary capital or solvency buffer and a conservative remuneration policy will be pursued, particularly regarding variable remuneration. In addition to capital planning, remuneration will be taken into account for liquidity planning purposes. In this way, remuneration payments will not weaken the Firm's financial stability.

Specifically, regarding variable remuneration, the bonuses that are payable under the annual incentive award are discretionary and the pool of money available depends on the overall profitability of the MetLife group, among other non-financial factors, as indicated above.

5 Employee Performance

5.1 Performance Measurement and Risk Adjustment

MetLife's discretionary Annual Variable Incentive Plan ("AVIP") provides eligible employees the opportunity to earn annual cash incentive awards.

The AVIP performance funding factor is based on the Firm's Adjusted Earnings compared to the Firm's prior year Business Plan, as approved by the MetLife Board Compensation Committee.

The Committee uses Adjusted Earnings as a key metric because doing so aligns compensation with bottom-line performance that generates shareholder value over time. Using Adjusted Earnings, rather than GAAP net income, focuses on the Firm's primary businesses excluding the impact of market volatility, which could distort results, and revenues and costs related to areas such as non-core products, divested businesses, and discontinued operations.

Adjusted Earnings excludes the impact of net investment gains and losses and net derivative gains and losses, which helps mitigate the potential for excessive risk-taking. Adjusted Earnings also enhances shareholders' understanding of MetLife's results without the impact of asymmetrical and non-economic accounting for certain net derivatives gains and losses and certain hedging activity.

To facilitate prudent risk management, the Firm calculates Adjusted Earnings for AVIP by eliminating the impact (if any) of variable investment income on an after-tax basis that was higher or lower than the Business Plan goal by 10% or more.

The final discretionary AVIP award for employees who are fully dedicated to one of six MetLife Business Units (BU) may reflect a BU adjustment along with the Enterprise performance factor and consideration of the employee's performance. Discretionary AVIP awards for employees in control functions (i.e., audit, legal, risk & compliance) will reflect individual performance and only the Enterprise (not a BU) to preserve their independence. As set out above, the Firm also takes into account all types of current and future risks (financial and non-financial) when measuring performance and when allocating bonuses to its employees).

5.2 Assessment of Performance

Recognising employees both for their achievements and the way they achieved them is vital to the MetLife group. During the fourth quarter of the year, managers and employees focus their performance conversations on the contributions made by the employee so that rewards and growth opportunities are aligned appropriately. Individual performance is assessed using measures which are both quantitative and qualitative and which may relate to financial performance, people and culture, business and customer, and sustainability.

Managers assess individual performance during the pay review process. Individual performance is a factor in the recommendation for pay made by the manager.

For Identified Staff, all performance related variable pay is based on a combination of the performance of the individual, the relevant business unit and the performance of the Firm overall.

5.3 Guaranteed Variable Remuneration (provisions addressing ESMA Guidelines)

Variable remuneration is only paid under the established methods of the discretionary annual incentive awards or under specific contractual bonuses. All such payments are made under the control of HR. In addition, the Company also acknowledges that breaches of the ESMA Guidelines in relation to guarantees[6] may render a contract void and may require recovery of any payments made.

MetLife ensures that, through its remuneration structures and policy, employees are not paid variable remuneration through vehicles or methods that facilitate the avoidance of the ESMA Guidelines.

If the Company were to offer a sign-on bonus to any staff, this would be in exceptional case-by-case circumstances and would be:

- in the context of hiring new staff only;
- in the first year of service; and
- where the Company or the Firm has a strong capital base.

For the purposes of the Policy, a 'sign-on' bonus means any guaranteed variable remuneration offered to a new joiner, that is not contingent on individual or business performance, and may include a 'golden handshake award' or an award or payment made to an individual where they have lost the opportunity to be awarded variable remuneration by leaving their previous employment during a performance period.

For the purposes of this Policy, a 'buy-out' award (more commonly also referred to as a ‘sign-on’ bonus) means an award made to a new joiner to the Company to compensate them for a deferred award granted by a previous employer that is forfeited on the termination of their previous employment in order to join the Company.

Sign-on bonuses

In addition to the above requirements, if the Company were to offer a sign-on bonus to a new Identified Staff member, the award would:

- contain provisions on periods of retention, deferral, vesting and ex-post risk adjustment that are no shorter than any corresponding periods that applied to the arrangements the Company is seeking to buy out; and
- be aligned with the long-term interests of the Company.

5.4 Retention Awards

If the Company were to make a retention award to any Identified Staff member, this would be exceptional, and awards:

- would only be made following a defined event or at a specified point in time;

[6] guaranteed variable remuneration is exceptional, on a case-by-case basis, may occur only in the context of hiring new staff and is limited to the first year of engagement

- would be dependent on the individual remaining in the role until that defined event or point in time; and
- may be made dependent on the Identified Staff member meeting certain performance criteria that have been defined in advance.

In this regard, the Board has, considering the size, nature and scope of its activities, decided to dis-apply the requirements of the ESMA Guidelines in respect of retention, including with respect to retention periods applicable to the receipt of variable remuneration in instruments.

5.5 Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment

MetLife's Performance-based Compensation Recoupment Policy applies to all employees of the Firm and its affiliates. The additional terms as set out in Appendix 1 shall also apply to Identified Staff of the Company. In addition, the MetLife Policy for the Recoupment of Erroneously Awarded Compensation under the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act shall also apply to the Identified Staff, as applicable.

6 Early Termination

6.1 Payments related to Early Termination

In the event of MetLife awarding severance payments, it ensures that such payments relating to the early termination of a contract reflect performance achieved over time and are designed in a way that does not reward failure.[7] In determining payments in relation to early termination, the Company will not make any payments in excess of two times average pay. For the purposes of this paragraph, 'pay' shall include average annual salary, benefits and variable remuneration.

[7] Schedule 2 of the AIFM Regulations

7 Firm Securities

7.1 Pledging Firm Securities

The Company prohibits its employees from pledging MetLife securities in order to prevent a misalignment of interests with MetLife's shareholders, or the appearance of such a misalignment.

7.2 Hedging

MetLife prohibits all employees from engaging in short sales, hedging, and trading in put and call options with respect to MetLife securities.

The Company expressly prohibits its employees from entering into any personal hedging arrangements and any remuneration-related and/or liability-related contracts of insurance in relation to their variable remuneration. In addition, Identified Staff will be required to attest to this restriction on an annual basis and the personal transactions of employees will be monitored which enables the Company to ensure there is no contravention of this provision of the Policy.

7.3 Deferral / Firm-wide Deferral

The Board has, considering the size, nature and scope of its activities, decided to dis-apply the requirements of the ESMA Guidelines in respect of deferral.

8 Delegation

8.1 Delegate Investment Managers

The Company may delegate certain portfolio management activities to sub-investment manager affiliates within MIM, currently MetLife Investment Management, LLC ("MIM LLC"), a company incorporated in the United States, and MetLife Investment Management Limited ("MIML"), a company incorporated in the United Kingdom. In such circumstances and in accordance with the ESMA Guidelines, when delegating certain portfolio management activities, the Company must use its best efforts to ensure that:

1) the entities to which certain portfolio management activities have been delegated are subject to regulatory requirements on remuneration that are equally as effective as those applicable under the ESMA Guidelines (which would include entities which are subject to the remuneration requirements under either the MiFID II Delegated Regulation or CRD IV, and non-EU firms which are subject to group remuneration policies that are equally as effective as those subject to the MiFID II Delegated Regulation or CRD IV); or
2) appropriate contractual arrangements are put in place with entities to which certain portfolio management activities have been delegated in order to ensure that there is no circumvention of the remuneration rules set out in applicable regulations and the ESMA Guidelines; these contractual arrangements should cover any payments made to the delegates' Identified Staff as compensation for the performance of portfolio or risk management activities on behalf of the Company.

The Company also imposes a contractual obligation on the delegate investment managers under the relevant agreement to provide the Company with a copy of its written remuneration policy which reflects the relevant requirements, and to keep the Company informed of any material changes in addition to any material contraventions of applicable regulations. The Company seeks reasonable assurances on a periodic (at least annual) basis that the delegate's remuneration policy is implemented on an on-going basis in accordance with the foregoing provisions.

The Company notes that the variable remuneration in instruments requirement of the ESMA Guidelines does not apply where the fund in question comprises less than 50 per cent (50%) of a manger's assets under management. As such, the Company considers that insofar as a delegate investment manager does not invoke proportionality to satisfactorily dis-apply such requirement, the pay-out process rules should not apply in the case of an impacted delegate where the relevant fund(s) to which it has been appointed accounts for less than 50 per cent (50%) of the delegate investment manager's assets under management.

The relevant delegate investment manager must comply with the same requirements as the Company in adopting its approach to the application of the principle of proportionality to its remuneration framework. A consideration of proportionality may also include a consideration of whether it is practical for the delegate investment manager to apply the pay-out process rules and regard may be had to circumstances such as: the relevant fund being a closed-ended AIF; the AIF documentation precludes staff investment or has a high minimum investment threshold; whether it is permissible to market the AIF to staff or for staff to hold units in the AIF; if an investment in the AIF would have a negative tax effect for third party investors; or, where the creation of structured "equivalent ownership interests" would be unduly costly relative to the benefits gained.

Where a delegate seeks to disapply the pay-out process rules or the requirement to establish a remuneration committee under the ESMA Guidelines (on the basis of proportionality), the details of any such proportionality analysis will be provided by the delegate to the Company for review on request.

9 Sustainability / ESG Considerations

9.1 Integration of Sustainability Risks

In accordance with Article 5 of Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 November 2019 on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector ("SFDR"), financial market participants (including UCITS Management Companies and AIFMs) are required to include in their remuneration policies information on how those policies are consistent with the integration of sustainability risks and must publish that information on their websites.

The Company acknowledges that its Remuneration Policy must be consistent with and promote sound and effective risk management and not encourage risk-taking that exceeds the level of tolerated risk of the Company. The Company affirms that its Remuneration Policy is aligned with the Company's approach to responsible investment, including the incorporation of environmental, social and governance ("ESG") factors into investment decisions (where these are relevant and material for a Fund or Individual Portfolio) and seeks to ensure that its remuneration structures do not encourage excessive risk-taking with respect to sustainability risks.

The Company carries out an assessment of the performance of Identified Staff when assessing and determining variable remuneration. Individual performance is assessed holistically using both quantitative and qualitative measures which may include goals related to financial performance, people and culture, business and customer, and a consideration of whether the relevant employee has complied with the Company's sustainability policies, as applicable.

The Company ensures that the remuneration of Identified Staff is reasonably aligned with the interests of the Company, the Funds and Individual Portfolios it manages, and will promote effective risk management (including with respect to long and short-term interests, and sustainability risks, where relevant).

10 Disclosures

Without prejudice to confidentiality and applicable data protection legislation, the Company will disclose summarised details of its remuneration arrangements in the annual audited financial statements of its UCITS and AIFs under management, in accordance with applicable requirements.

The Company will also publish summarised details of its Remuneration Policy on its website. The Prospectus of each Fund and Key Investor Information Document ("KIID") of each UCITS fund shall also contain the disclosures required in accordance with applicable requirements.

Appendix 1

MetLife Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment Policy – Additional terms for Identified Staff

This Appendix describes the additional circumstances in which MetLife may seek recoupment of performance-based compensation from Identified Staff and modifies the terms of the MetLife Performance-Based Compensation Recoupment Policy ("Recoupment Policy"). Capitalised terms used in this Appendix are as defined in the Recoupment Policy unless stated otherwise. Save as set out in this Appendix, all other provisions of the Recoupment Policy remain unchanged.

For the purposes of this Appendix:

- "Identified Staff" refers to any employee or former employee of the Company that is or was identified by the Company as falling within those categories of staff, including senior management, risk takers, control functions and any employee receiving total remuneration that takes them into the same remuneration bracket as senior management and risk takers, whose professional activities have a material impact on the Company's risk profile or the risk profiles of the Funds, as identified in accordance with the Regulatory Technical Standards (EU) 604/2014 and the ESMA Guidelines
- "Performance-Based Compensation" refers to each award and payment (whether in cash, MetLife stock, or otherwise and including for Identified Staff, any un-deferred cash or share payments) of incentive compensation and other compensation, the earning, payment or amount of which depends on the performance of the Firm, any affiliate or any individual, product, service, or business unit, including but not limited to annual incentive compensation, MetLife Annual Variable Incentive Plan awards or payments, and awards of or pay-outs from stock options, performance shares, restricted stock units, performance units, restricted units, or unit options, including but not limited to gains from the sale or disposition of securities from the current MetLife, Inc. Stock and Incentive Compensation Plan, as such program(s), plan(s) and any other incentive-based compensation plans that may be created, amended and/or restated from time to time and any successor thereto.

Identified Staff

In addition to the circumstances as set out in the Recoupment Policy, in circumstances where the Company, MetLife or any relevant affiliate determines that any Identified Staff has:

- participated in or was responsible for conduct which resulted in significant losses to the Company or the Firm; and/or

- failed to meet appropriate standards of fitness and propriety, then the Company, MetLife or any affiliate may seek the recoupment of performance-based compensation (awarded in respect of performance years commencing on or after 1 January 2022) that was or otherwise would be awarded to, credited, earned by, or paid to that Identified Staff member during or after the period of such conduct or that resulted from such conduct. For the avoidance of doubt, recoupment may be applied in respect of any awards or payments (or parts thereof) at any time, even where the performance-based compensation does not relate to performance for the year in which the event occurred or came to light. Where recoupment is applied to any performance-based compensation before the full impact of the event is known, subsequent recoupment may be applied, in order to ensure the final value recovered fully reflects the impact of the event. In making any recoupment demand, the proximity of the Identified Staff member to the event in question and the individual's level of responsibility may also be taken into account.

Limitation Period

The Company, or relevant affiliate, may seek recoupment in accordance with the Recoupment Policy within any period of time allowed by applicable law.